SPEEDY ENDING OF MURDER TRIAL

Somebody Blundered and Two Accused Murderers Are Set Free.

Miomura and Maeda, the two Japanese accused of murder in the first degree, who have been for two years awaiting trial, were acquitted yesterday by Judge Robinson, the decision exciting a great deal of attention because of the unusual circumstances making it necessary. The fact that the two accused were discharged without a trial, on a plea in bar made by W. T. Rawlins, their attorney, showed that someone had blundered somewhere, although the blame was not fixed. The whole matter of the acquittal rested on the fact that there was nothing on record in the minutes of Judge De Bolt's court to show that the case against the accused had even been continued from the December term of 1906. This at once, according to Hawaiian precedent, placed them beyond the jurisdiction of the court and there was nothing upon which they could be held, tried or reindicted.

The presentation of the plea in bar was made the first thing yesterday morning, following the jury roll-call, and all morning was taken up by argument, searching the minutes of De Bolt's court and consulting authorities. Deputy Attorney General Larnach, who had the case in hand for his department, was nonplused by the showing made by Rawlins and had to throw up his hands.

The crime, for which Maeda and Miomura were indicted, was the killing of another Japanese, Katsujiro Mineoka, in a brawl at Ewa on June 16, 1906. They were indicted in September of the same year and came up to plead before Judge De Bolt in December of 1906, their cases going over.

Here is where the hiatus comes in, no record being available of a commitment to another term.

The plea in bar, sustained reluctantly yesterday morning by Judge Robinson, was:

"Now comes Maeda, one of the defendants herein, and moves this Honorable Court that he be discharged and not compelled to answer or stand trial on the indictment now on file against him on the following grounds:

"1.—That the indictment was returned against him and filed in this court at the September A. D. 1906 term and that he was not tried at said September A. D. 1906 term of this court.

"2.—That this court at the term aforesaid made no order granting a change of venue, and further that no order has been issued or made by the First Circuit Court or any Judge thereof continuing or postponing the trial of said cause upon said indictment to the January term, 1907, of this court.

"3.—That the failure to prosecute upon said indictment found at said September term, A. D. 1906, operates as an acquittal of this defendant.

"4.—That the defendant herein should be discharged as he has already been acquitted of the offense alleged in the indictment upon which this trial is now to proceed, and now pleads autrefois acquit.

"This motion is based upon all the records and papers now on file in this court and upon testimony to be adduced in support thereof."

In rendering his decision discharging the prisoners, both of whom had pleaded as above, Judge Robinson said:

"It is not the duty of this court to legislate. It is merely the duty of the court to construe and administer and apply the law as it finds it and as the Legislature enacts. And reluctant as I am to allow the pleas in bar particularly in this case because of its character and because of the gravity and magnitude of the crime charged—the greatest known to our law—I see no other way out of it in view of the provisions of our statute and of the decision of the Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Hartwell in King vs. Tin Ah Chin et al., 3rd Haw. 90.

"Let the pleas in bar be and the same are hereby allowed, and let the defendants be and they are discharged."

AN AUSTRALIAN COMMERCIAL TRAVELER'S STORY.

It is the commercial traveler who finds the many changes of climate and water trying. Mr. Chas. G. Chapman, who represents a large Brisbane concern, had been troubled for years with chronic diarrhoea. On one of his trips a fellow traveler recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and this is what he says of it: "I procured a bottle and experienced great relief after taking a few doses. Before the bottle was finished I was cured and have not been troubled since." This remedy is for sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., Agents for Hawaiian Islands.

The Criterion and Palace bars have become very popular through their original method of keeping their draught beer. All the life and sparkle are preserved by their method.
